Dear Colleague,

Developing Border Strategies Through Co-operation and Technology

Turkey is arguably one of the most strategically positioned countries in the world and Istanbul, the most strategically positioned city. Turkey stands on the crossroads between two continents and indeed two cultures. It also sits astride the Bosporus Strait, connecting two of the world's most important seas, the Mediterranean and the Black Sea.

Conflict in the neighbouring countries has led to major influxes of refugees heading for Europe or simply the nearest safe haven. Turkey has an estimated five million refugees currently hosted, mainly coming from the conflicts in Iraq and Syria.

Terrorism is a major problem from both domestic terrorist groups including the Kurdistan Workers' Party (PKK), the Islamic State of Iraq and the Levant (ISIL), and the Gülen movement. As well as spill over from neighbouring conflicts.

Turkeys strategic position as a routeway between continents also means that is also a major route for human trafficking, drugs, weapons and other goods bound for the lucrative European market.

The heroin trade from Afghanistan to Europe is especially a problem with Turkish organised groups controlling the wholesale traffic of heroin to Europe.

Turkey is working hard with neighbours including the EU to address these challenges including the sharing of intelligence, conducting joint operations, and offering humanitarian assistance.

With its unique position as one of the world's gateway cities, Istanbul and Turkey is the perfect place re-convene for the next meeting of the World Border Security Congress.

We need to continue the discussion, collaboration and intelligence sharing.

We are delighted to be co-hosted and supported by the Ministry of Interior of Turkey. The Congress is also supported by the Organisation for Security & Cooperation in Europe (OSCE), the European Association of Airport and Seaport Police (EAASP), African Union Economic, Social and Cultural Council (AU-ECOSOCC), Migration, Asylum, Refugees Regional Initiative (MARRI), African Young People Support Center, World Border Security Network and International Association of CIP Professionals, and is the premier multi-jurisdictional global platform where the border protection policy-makers, management and practitioners together with security industry professionals, convene to discuss the international challenges faced in protecting borders.

The Congress programme (correct at the time of printing) will deliver high level discussions and a series of Closed Agency Only Workshops for promoting greater collaboration on the international challenges.

On behalf of the Organizing Committee you are cordially invited to Istanbul, Turkey on 24th-26th April 2024 for World Border Security Congress, the premier gathering of border and migration management professionals.

We look forward to welcoming you.

BORDER SECURITY REPORT

World Border Security Congress

Turkey's geographical location poses significant challenges for its border security and migration agencies. Straddling two continents, Turkey sits at the crossroads of Europe and Asia. Its unique position makes it a vital transit point for migrants and refugees looking to reach European countries, as well as organized criminal gangs to conduct cross border smuggling activities.

One of the main challenges arises from Turkey's extensive land and sea borders, sharing borders with eight countries, and its boundaries encompass rugged terrains, including mountains and rivers that can be difficult to patrol. Moreover, its maritime borders with Greece and Bulgaria, across the Aegean Sea, provide multiple clandestine entry points for people trying to reach Europe. The vastness and complexity of these borders necessitate considerable manpower and resources to monitor and secure effectively.

Turkey has become a major route for mass migration movements, especially since the Syrian civil war, which resulted in millions of refugees seeking asylum. This has put immense pressure on Turkey's migration management capacities. The influx of migrants not only requires border control but also humanitarian aid, asylum processing, and integration efforts. This ongoing situation leads to the challenge of balancing security measures with human rights obligations.

The geopolitical situation is another factor complicating the border control issues. The political unrest in neighboring regions and the rise of non-state actors, such as smugglers and human trafficking networks, exploit the situation, making the enforcement of border regulations even more daunting.

Turkey's location presents a unique set of challenges for border security and migration. The country has to deal with a complex border landscape, significant migration flows, geopolitical uncertainties, and the pressure of aligning with European Union standards, all of which tax its resources and policy-making decisions.

Advancements in tec[illegible]y are assisting in the battle to maintain safe and sec[illegible]e international travel. The border security professional still remains the front line against these threats.

We need to continue the discussion, collaboration and intelligence sharing.

The World Border Security Congress is the premier multi-jurisdictional trans-national platform where the border protection, management and security industry policy-makers and practitioners convene to discuss the international challenges faced in protecting borders.

4:00pm - 5:30pm PLENARY SESSION - MANAGING MIGRATION (ORGANISED CRIME AS COVER FOR MIGRANT SMUGGLING AND THB)

It is well established that organised crime groups are able to adapt and evolve to use any weakness or vulnerability at our borders as a cover for nefarious activities. The migration crises we are experiencing on the southern borders of the US and EU offer prime opportunities for criminal activities, including smuggling migrants for money, which is generally a voluntary transaction but leaves migrants dangerously exposed to death, injury and abuse, and THB, which is the forced trafficking of persons. Regions of Asia are also experiencing unprecedented levels of THB, often for the vice trade. What are the latest challenges with migrant smuggling and THB, how do these two crimes differ in terms of methodology and how does can the international community combat cross-border crimes or irregular migration?

THURSDAY 25TH APRIL

9:00am - 10:30am

PLENARY SESSION - TERRORISM AND COUNTERING TERRORISM (INCL. FTFS AS SLEEPERS)

Whilst the threat from ISIL and Al Qaeda has diminished since the destruction of the Islamic Caliphate in Syria and Iraq, Isil's defeat has left thousands of Foreign Terrorist Fighters (FTF's) in captivity in the Middle East and -Stan countries, with many more yet unaccounted for. How much of a long-term threat do these unaccounted for and incarcerated FTF's pose as they are released or escape and use the THB networks to infiltrate back into their countries of origin. And how many have already made their way back to their home country without being picked up by the local criminal justice system. The UN mandated adoption of API and PNR, in combination with the more widespread use of watchlists, will be a key factor in countering the movement of FTF's.

Goran Stojkovski, Programme Management Officer, UN Countering Terrorist Travel Programme (CT Travel), United Nations Office of Counterterrorism (UNOCT), UNCCT

BREAKOUT WORKSHOP - CHALLENGES FOR SMALL PORTS AND AIRFIELDS

As perpetrators of trafficking human beings (THB) and international crimes, such as smuggling of drugs or illicit goods, continue to show signs of avoiding commercial airlines, there is evidence that regional airlines and airports, as well as light aircraft into small private aerodromes and fields, are being used for these activities, where the handling of these flights by departure and arrival are not through the regular border controls. Similar issues and challenges are being faced on coastal borders, with smugglers and traffickers of human beings using small boats to benefit from utilising beaches or hidden alcoves to conduct their illegal activities. What can be done to tackle the use of light aircraft and private airfields, and small boats, which are difficult to detect, highly problematic to intercept and easy for criminal to be in and out again in a matter of minutes?

PLENARY SESSION - MARITIME BORDER CHALLENGES

Securing maritime borders is one of the most challenging problems facing border and associated agencies. Tens of thousands of kilometres of coastline. Thousands of secluded bays and river estuaries and inlets. Islands, islets, cliffs, beaches, marshlands and mangrove swamps. Busy ports and harbours. Numerous commercial and pleasure craft coming and going in conditions that can be anything from flat calm to gale force. Add to this the unseen; submersibles, semi-submersibles, scuba divers and underwater caches. Given the favourable conditions for criminal enterprise, no wonder smuggling is one of the oldest criminal activities. How do you secure your coasts and tackle the multitude of ingress and egress points and ensure that our coasts and maritime borders are as secure as they can be?

BREAKOUT SESSION - IT/TECH AT THE BORDER AS AN ENABLER/THREAT - CYBERCRIME / AI

The mandated use of API/PNR data will make travel much safer and ultimately easier. But, the more people and organisations that hold and share our personal data, the more vulnerable we all become to cyber-crime, both as individuals and as organisations. Systems using API/PNR data are and will be a target for cyber criminals. The more personal data we hold and the more we rely on data systems as enablers at the border, the more vulnerable we are malicious cyber-attacks, whether for financial gain such as ransomware attacks, identity fraud or simply to disruption of the regular flow of traffic at the border. Does this threat increase exponentially with the advent of AI or is AI the answer to protecting ourselves and our systems? Can AI be utilised to generated alerts, red flags on travellers?

PLENARY SESSION - COUNTERING SERIOUS ORGANISED CRIME, DRUGS, SALW, SMUGGLING

Criminal actors continue to be very creative in developing new techniques and channels to conduct illicit activities. There is an old saying, 'follow the money' - investigating financial transactions and use that information to indicate evidence of a crime, a suspect or criminal network. But it is not only the money that facilitates this, it's exporter, carrier, forward freighter, delivery address, destination and more. Like API/PNR for passengers, this information builds a picture of the whole transaction that will establish patterns and history vital to identifying the organised criminal gangs that smuggle drugs, weapons, people etc. What are the latest challenges in the battle against SOC and how can border and associated agencies better use the data available to them to defeat cross border organised crime.

Moderated by: Marouan Hitti, Ugur Gungor, Richard Warnes - NATO COEDAT

COE-DAT will provide an academic insight into border security in the context of CT, and use case study examples from Türkiye and Lebanon in order to highlight how theoretical understanding can be applied in practice to better equip policy-level decision makers to defend their borders against terrorist activity.
The workshop aims to provide insight at the strategic level with regards to managing the range of tools available to develop border security, though this will include understanding the requirement to ensure strategy can be implemented at the tactical level. The outcome is to view border security and CT as a holistic process, underpinned by both academic research and practical experience."

BREAKOUT SESSION - ID / DOCUMENT FRAUD

Criminals and terrorists historically often make use of fake and genuine identity and travel documents to enable their illegal activities. The adoption of Entry/Exit systems and data will no doubt make this more difficult but we should anticipate that criminals and terrorists will use their undoubted ingenuity and considerable resources to circumvent this problem. So, what is the future of identity fraud and how do we put in place mechanisms to identify the vulnerabilities. And once identified the vulnerabilities in the systems how do we plug the gaps and ensure that those gaps and plugs are shared with colleagues worldwide? With different agencies having developed different programs, how can these work together to the benefit of the international border management community?

PLENARY SESSION - FUTURE BORDERS

It is now clear that entry/exit systems are future of our borders and that API/PNR data is fundamental to their successful implementation. But how is that implementation progressing, especially at our maritime and green borders where there is little or no experience in the use of these technologies and data systems, and where conditions make it much more challenging, like busy ferry ports or secluded border crossings points or harbours? As passengers in general want technology to make travel simpler, governmental movements towards new forms of border control with the use of Digital Identity are with public-private cooperation. What is the changing landscape of API/PNR and how will that data and systems be managed as it rolls out across the world and are Trusted Traveller Programmes based on API/PNR data the future. What's the latest thought leadership in enhancing border protection and management to counter the ever-changing challenges?

Site Visits to Istanbul International Airport; or Port of Istanbul

Wednesday 24th April – 8.30am-12noon

Istanbul International Airport

Istanbul Airport is the larger of two international airports serving Istanbul, Turkey. It is located in the Arnavutköy district on the European side of the city.

It served more than 64 million passengers in 2022, making it the busiest airport in Europe and 7th-busiest airport in the world in terms of total passenger traffic and, by serving more than 48 million international passengers, the 5th-busiest airport in the world in terms of international passenger traffic according to ACI World traffic values. It serves up to 114 countries and is the hub for Turkish Airlines.

Construction of the airport was divided over four phases. When all stages are completed, the airport will have the capacity to serve 200 million yearly passengers, which would at that time have made it the world's biggest airport. The cost of the project was estimated at €7 billion.

With the co-operation of the Ministry of Interior, The World Border Security Congress is delighted to offer, a guided site visit of Istanbul International Airport for a limited number of delegates.

Port of Istanbul

Port of Istanbul is a general cargo seaport, ro-ro and container terminal, situated in Haydarpaşa, Istanbul, Turkey at the southern entrance to the Bosphorus, near Haydarpaşa Station. It is operated by the Turkish State Railways (TCDD) and serves a hinterland which includes the country's most industrialised areas.

The Port of Istanbul is one of the three major Turkey's shipping ports, along with the Port of Ambarlı, and the Port of Zeytinburnu. Haydarpaşa was the largest port in Turkey until the early 2000s, as it was surpassed in TEUs by the Port of Ambarlı. Now, it is the third-largest port in Turkey. Haydarpaşa's annual cargo volume exceeds 60 million tons.

The Port of Haydarpaşa is located at the southern entrance to the Bosphorus. Two breakwaters protect vessels in the port, which total area is 343,420 square meters. The port handles ro-ro, containers, and general cargoes.

The World Border Security Congress is delighted to offer, with the support of the Ministry of Interior, a guided site visit of BPort of Istanbul for a limited number of delegates.

African Young People Support Center

AFRICAN SMART CITIES INNOVATION FOUNDATION

Advancing Social Economic Cross-Border Relations Through Technology and Cooperation

Wednesday 24th April - 9.30am-12.30pm

This Workshop, organized by the African Young People Support Centre (AYPSC) in collaboration with the African Smart Cities Innovation Foundation (ASCIF), is geared towards a comprehensive exploration of social-economic cross-border relations, Although a specific emphasis on the African continent, it covers examples from other continents. The event aims to unravel the intricate interplay between trade dominance, political mediation, and technological advancements, all pivotal in fostering cross-border coordination and cooperation.

The examination of cross-border dynamics is a focal point, delving into the intricate dance between trade, politics, and institutions, including scrutinizing the correlation between trade dominance and the resulting economic interdependency that gives rise to cross-border linkages. Special attention will be given to investigating the role of local–central networks, involving government actors and other organizations, in mediating these complex processes.

In the era of global digital transformation, the Workshop will address continental advancements in digital governance from a global perspective. It will emphasize the imperative of continental harmonization and the need for complementary global actions to influence norms on digital governance. The 'digital agenda' calls for not only national policy implementation but also high-level political investment at the continental level, coupled with global engagement on standard setting.

The Workshop underscores the need for Africa to actively shape its role in global digital geopolitics. Insights shared during the event will focus on smart border technologies and their potential to revolutionize Africa's infrastructure, whilst contributing significantly to securing peace and stability across the African continent, by efficiently connecting African capitals and socio-economic activities.

Workshop Time
Wednesday 24th April 2024 : 9.30am – 12:30pm

Delegates of the World Border Security Congress are entitled to participate in this African Young People Support Centre (AYPSC) and African Smart Cities Innovation Foundation (ASCIF) Workshop.

Countering the Movement of Terrorists Across Borders Workshop

Workshop facilitated by NATO COE-DAT

Friday 26th April 9.00am-10.30am

For Border agencies and agencies at the border only

Moderated by: Marouan Hitti, Ugur Gungor, Richard Warnes - NATO COEDAT

A Centre of Excellence (COE) is an entity offering specialised expertise and experience to the benefit of the NATO Alliance, especially in support of Transformation. The Centre of Excellence Defence Against Terrorism (COE-DAT) is a NATO accredited, multi-national sponsored entity located in Ankara, Türkiye. COE-DAT was inaugurated in 2005 as the second among the 30 NATO Centres of Excellence that exist today. The Centre is composed of personnel from eight NATO nations and is focused on providing key decision-makers with realistic solutions to terrorism and counter-terrorism (CT) challenges. COE-DAT is designed to complement NATO's current resources while also serving three different functions: NATO's Department Head in Education and Training for CT; Education and Training Facility offering courses and other training and education opportunities; and, a strategic-level think tank.

Border Security is one of the topics that COE-DAT invests in, as it is deemed relevant to CT efforts. Border Security, Refugees and Counter-Terrorism is one of the 12 NATO-approved courses that are taught at COE-DAT.

During the COE-DAT workshop at the World Border Security Congress, COE-DAT will provide an academic insight into border security in the context of CT, and use case study examples from Türkiye and Lebanon in order to highlight how theoretical understanding can be applied in practice to better equip policy-level decision makers to defend their borders against terrorist activity.

The aim of the workshop is to allow participants to engage with subject matter experts and discuss a series of factors that contribute to border security, highlighting how technological advances need to be matched by human understanding and conventional methods in order to provide comprehensive defence against terrorism.

The workshop aims to provide insight at the strategic level with regards to managing the range of tools available to develop border security, though this will include understanding the requirement to ensure strategy can be implemented at the tactical level. The outcome is to view border security and CT as a holistic process, underpinned by both academic research and practical experience."

EUROPEAM ASSOCIATION OF AIRPORT & SEAPORT POLICE WORKSHOP

World Border Security Congress

European Association of Airport and Seaport Police

SHAPING GROUND-BREAKING TECHNOLOGIES TO SUPPORT END-USERS COUNTERING IDENTITY-FRAUD AT BORDERS

WEDNESDAY 24TH APRIL - 10.30AM-12.30PM

The European Association Airport & Seaport Police is one of the 23 parties involved in the EU-funded project SafeTravellers, which started January this year and will last for three years. It aims to produce a near-operational system at TRL7 or above. SafeTravellers is focused on:

a) strengthening border security,

b) improving the productivity of the Border Authorities by providing them with the appropriate tools to perform trustworthy identity management, combat identity fraud at the hardware, identity, and travel document, and biometrics levels, while

c) offering a frictionless border crossing experience for EU and Third Country Nationals (TCN) citizens, eliminating the need for stops at border checkpoints.

This workshop is part of the requirements definition phase of the project, and practitioners are particularly welcome to contribute their operational preferences for an enhanced border system. The team will also share the emerging Use Cases that are being developed and ask for comments from the operational and technical communities.

SafeTravellers proposes both a new way of citizen identification based on multiple biometrics, instead of the problematic identity document, and an enhancement of the current identity verification at borders through a set of tools that will detect attacks at the biometric hardware, identity and travel document fraud, and attempts to falsify biometrics.

The proposed solution must meet ethical requirements, has to be GDPR compliant, and introduces various privacy-preserving mechanisms to safeguard citizens' biometrics through homomorphic encryption. Through the one-of-its-kind distributed European Multi-Biometric Data Space offered by SafeTravellers, each Member State will keep the personal data of its country nationals within its jurisdiction while allowing cross-border identity checks without transferring or revealing any biometric data.

The role of the EAASP is leading in the coordination of four pilots containing use cases, with preparations already in full swing. We are looking for debate on the technical and (future) operational aspects of the pilots. The benefit for the workshop attendees is to gain deeper insight of the efforts, goals and outcomes of the project and benefiting from the final solution.

Join this workshop and help shape the future of the SaveTraveller programme.
